Amy is the Director of Financial Aid at Simmons University in Boston serving both undergraduate and graduate (on ground and online) students. She leads the teams responsible for all aspects of financial aid and student employment management, oversight, and compliance. Prior to Simmons, she spent 21 years working in the Admissions and Financial Aid office at Harvard College as a member of the senior leadership team for the financial aid office, managing all aspects of Federal, State and University compliance including oversight, training and audits.

Amy has spent the last 24 years volunteering her time helping families navigate the financial aid process through presentations at local high schools, FAFSA Day workshops and sitting down with families one on one. She has presented at various conferences, meetings and retreats on a wide range of financial aid topics. She currently serves as faculty at the Harvard Summer Institute on College Admissions, as Tri-Chair for FAFSA Day Massachusetts, and as a College Board New England Regional Council Member.
